Comprehension of a narrative

My lion story

About 20 years ago I went to London Zoo with my son age 2 and was shocked how much the zoo changed so much and improved better for animals.

The family of lions had lived in London Zoo for 40 years. The current lion's grandparents used to live in a small grey and miserable cage with iron sticks which I saw them since I was four. It made them so angry to live there for years while people watched them walking backwards and forwards!

Now the lions have been moved to an open-air space and roam peacefully amongst the greenery as people look at them through a large protective window! But I wish they came to be close to us!

Story building

Make a story about the farm

Make a story about pets at home

Make a story about wild animals
